NORMAL PLAYERS GIVE "HAPPINESS"

"Happiness," by J. Hartley Manners, recently a sensational hit in New York and Chicago, approached very near the original company in the Normal auditorium Tuesday evening when the Seniors of the Eastern Kentucky State Normal School presented it to a capacity house. Miss Rucie Miller, director, is to be congratulated upon its success.

The play is a charming little story, setting forth the steps to happiness by phases. There is a delightful thread of Irish wit running through the entire play.

Mary Joseph Jones, as Jenny, a bewitching little Irish girl who has found happiness in her humble home and six-dollar-a-week job, displayed marked talent and approached Miss Laurette Taylor of the original production, in her technique. Miss Jones' Irish brogue was delightful but she was equally as remarkable in her ability to bring tears to the eyes of her audience. Miss Jones, however, needs no introduction to a Richmond audience as she is well remembered by her work in "She Stoops to Conquer" and "A Scrap of Paper."

Ray Foster, as Fernoy, sweetheart of Jenny, supported Miss Jones splendidly. His Irish accent was perfect and his humor

Burns Moonshine In The Moonshine

The Glasgow Times says that Sheriff Shaw put the match to 15 gallons of illicit moonshine, in the moonlight of Monday night. The flames writhed and twisted, and alternately glowed the colors of rainbow. It burned like gasoline and gave off an odor that lingered long and smelled like scorched apples before an open fireplace. Dry were many throats and wet the eye of many bystanders as the flames lapped up the liquor in better style than any hard drinker. Instead of burning the wind, pipe of some of the fellows who wanted to be burned, it met a like fate itself in a gutter in the street of Glasgow.

REGISTRATION SUIT IN APPELLATE COURT

(By Associated Press) Frankfort, Ky., June 21—The suit of J. M. Perkins, assailing the constitutionality of the Smith Minor general registration law, was today placed before Chief Justice Rollin Hurt, of the Court of Appeals. Hurt stated he would call the entire court in to decide the case and the decision would be rendered before vacation.

Attorneys for Perkins, whose suit is backed by the republican state organization, filed the brief. They allege the General Assembly deliberately sought to deprive certain classes of persons of the right to vote and place qualifications on voters not required by the constitution; that it would bar every officer whose duties compel him to be away from home, members of the state militia under orders from the governor, sailors at sea, commercial travelers and federal employees. The brief attacks the legislature, saying "It may be the peculiar processes of minds of the authors of this bill can find some justification for such legislation, but we have yet to find a single decision of any court of any repute whatever which has ever undertaken to sustain any such unreasonable regulation of the right of suffrage."

truly from the "auld cuntry." He sang several Irish ballads in his soft rich tenor voice which thoroughly charmed his audience. Verinda Deatherage displayed unusual ability in the portrayal of the flighty, talkative Miss Perkins, and brought many laughs from her audience.

Christine Sandlin, as Mrs. Pole, who was never satisfied but always in pursuit of happiness, interpreted this haughty lady to perfection. Miss Sandlin's regal beauty was especially suited to her part.

Cowan Taylor, as Chandos, admirably portrayed this character. Walter Moser was good as John Scowcroft. Betty Chenault and Harvey Blanton were adorable in their parts and were quite a hit with all. Others who appeared were: Shelby Carr, Margaret Crooke and Ruth Latimer, all of whom did well.

RAILWAYS TO PROMOTE SAFETY CAMPAIGN

June 1 to September 30 To Have Slogan "Cross Crossings Cautiously"

Mr. W. H. Bower, local agent of the L. & N. is doing much in promoting the "Careful Crossing Campaign" and general education of the public in the hazards of traveling. He is sending out information which is of value to everyone who has anything to do with the railroads at any time.

"Under the auspices of the American Railway Association, there was inaugurated on June 1 and continuing till September 30, 1922, a 'Careful Crossing Campaign,' its slogan being 'Cross Crossings Cautiously,' having for its purpose the prevention or reduction in the number of highway crossing accidents involving railroad trains, vehicles and pedestrians, throughout the country.

"Such a campaign is necessary and timely, as shown by the following facts: In 30 years our country's population increased 67 per cent. Crossing accidents increased 345 per cent in fatal and 652 per cent in injury cases. In 1920 automobiles were involved in 76 per cent of all crossing accidents. During the year, 1791 persons were killed and 5,077 injured; of the latter number 116 died subsequently from injuries sustained at railroad crossings within the United States.

"There are two ways to reduce or entirely stop such accidents. The first in the public mind is, elimination of the crossings. This is impossible. There are 251,939 highway crossings on class 1 railroads alone (railroads with revenue of over $1,000,000 annually) in the United States. Of number 399 were eliminated during 1919. At the same rate of elimination it will take 629 years to dispose of these crossings if no more are added. All the men and money available would not be sufficient to remove the crossings in a life time.

"Conservative estimates of the average cost of elimination fixed the figure at approximately $50,000 per crossing. This means $12,500,000,000.

"It is evident the immediate question must be met by a method other than the elimination of crossings which latter work will undoubtedly proceed as circumstances permit.

"Apparently the solution of the problem can be found in education. This education should be joint upon the part of the railroads and the public. It is the duty of the railroads to keep the crossings in good condition for travel; give reasonable notice of the existence of such crossings; and see to it that the railroad employees do their full duty in warning of the approach of trains.

"The department of the traveling public has a greater influence on railway safety than is generally known, and the Safety Section of the American Railway Association in an appeal for the conservation of human life and limb gives some illuminating facts on the subject.

"Of the 229 fatalities occurring in railway passenger travel during the year 1920, about two-thirds were cases in which the individual himself was in some way involved in the chain of circumstances. For example, 28 persons were killed by falling from coach steps, 18 by falling from moving trains, 64 by being struck or run over, and 10 met their death by deliberately jumping from trains while mentally deranged or to escape penal servitude. More startling still is the fact that 64 passengers were killed and 1,299 injured by getting on and off moving and stationary trains.

"Once seated inside a railway car, the traveler is in about the safest place in the world, and it is generally his own acts in gaining or leaving such position that create any substantial hazard. Notwithstanding the wonderful safety of passengers on the railways of the country, it is in the power of each of the billion travelers carried annually to make himself still more safe by being careful."

M. B. Hiffner, of Versailles, is superintendent of public instruction for Woodford county.

Did You Ever Stop To Think—

That it is not what you make, but what you save that counts. That the man in whom the fires of ambition burn to become rich in worldly goods, is in a better position to paddle his own canoe in life than a man who sailed the uncertain seas of life without a guiding star as a beacon light.

That to see your city a Bigger, Brighter, Better and Busier City, is a laudable ambition and one that every man, woman and child in your city has a right to cherish.

That you should back the ambition of your city to the limit. That your newspapers are builders of business.

That to get better business in shorter time, at smaller cost, advertise.

That the right kind of publicity attracts both business and population from the country over.

That you should build a reputation for your city as a progressive, forward-looking community that sets the pace for our neighboring cities.

That your city will only be as great as your citizens make it. Make it greater.

That there are many attractive homesites offered for sale in your city. Look them over, you might find one that you like.

That these are competitive times. Your business will be what Vision, Determination, Effort and Good Horse sense makes it.

Jack Dempsey says he'd rather fight than eat. Judging from his activity as a fighter, he apparently doesn't like to eat more than about once a year.

That New York policeman who chased a burglar 16 blocks in his BVD's doubtless had plenty of pants at the end of the chase.

A Washington wit suggests that a brand of soda water be named for the effervescent Tom Watson. But wouldn't the fiery Senator's name be better suited to something with a kick in it?

A New York man named Benko was arrested last week for passing a bogus check. That must be a misprint for Bunko.

The daily papers of this country are voicing the great alarm felt by the business interests of the United States at the very small amount of coal that has been laid by for next winter by the individual consumer. The average citizen has not bought his winter supply as he has been feeling that somehow there will be a great reduction in the price of coal before fall. This holds in spite of the assurance of the coal dealers and mine owners that there could be no further reduction made.

Coal consumers should heed this warning and put in all they need as soon as possible. Delay in buying means a great risk in getting all that you need, while by prompt action you can protect yourself and family at no greater price than you will have to pay later on. It is a wise man who sees ahead and takes precautions for the future. Buy your winter coal now and have it stored and you will be ready for any emergency that may arise.

The prospect of a coal famine this fall is considered by business men as one of the most serious problems that confront the public. This scarcity is looked on as a most disastrous obstacle in retarding business prosperity the coming year.

MRS. BUTLER IS OVERJOYED AT HER RECOVERY

Declares Tanlac Gave Complete Relief After Everything Else Failed to Reach Her Case.

"I am overjoyed at the wonderful good Tanlac has done me after I had suffered five years," said Mrs. Mamie Butler, 1258 Taylor Street, Richmond, Va.

Indigestion troubled me so long I had little hope of seeing another well day. Nearly everything I ate soured on my stomach and I felt stuffy and nauseated. The pains around my heart were so dreadful and I felt so tight across the chest I thought I would suffocate. Black spots came before my eyes and I almost fell over. I was badly constipated and so run down that often I had to go to bed and stay several days.

"But now I am well and happy for Tanlac has fully restored me after everything else failed. I enjoy everything I eat, my nerves are steady and I get plenty of restful sleep. Tanlac deserves all my praise and thanks."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

DISABLED MEN IN BIG CONVENTION

(By Associated Press)

San Francisco, Cal., June 21—With every railroad in the country granting a rate of one-way fare for the round trip excursion to San Francisco, thousands of America's wounded and disabled heroes of the great war are making plans to attend the second annual national convention of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, to be held in this city, June 26 to 30.

The entertainment program, which is to be an elaborate one, will commence Saturday, June 24 two days before the opening of the convention, and will continue until July 1. The mayor's citizens' committee is taking an active interest in preparations for the big convocation and will sponsor several lavish functions during the week of the convention. Supervisor Jesse C. Coleman, himself a world war veteran, being a Lieut. Colonel in the U. S. Reserves, is chairman of the citizens' committee. A. Katschinski, David F. Supple, and Hugo D. Newhouse, prominent business and civic leaders, are vice chairmen.

National Commander Judge Robert S. Marx, of Cincinnati, is expected in San Francisco, the morning of June 22, and Senior National Vice Commander Ralph Horr, of Seattle, will arrive here that evening. Horr's name has been mentioned as a popular candidate for National Commander to succeed Marx, but eastern advisers show a tendency to fight for retention of the office in the east. Two "dark horse" candidates, one from the Atlantic Seaboard, and another from the South, have been suggested, indicating an interesting contest for the office.

CHURCH ADVERTISING IN THE BIG CITIES

(By Associated Press)

Milwaukee, Wis., June 21—Views of editors and publishers on the value of church advertising were read before the convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World here last week by the Rev. J. T. Bradner Smith, of Chicago, of the revision of publicity, Committee on Conservation and Advance of the Council of the Board and Benevolences of the Methodist Episcopal church.

The expressions were received in reply to a letter sent to publishers and editors asking for a statement of the advantage and value of church advertising, it was stated. Following are abstracts from some of the statements read by the Rev. Smith:

The Times-Picayune, New Orleans, La., Manager: "For many years the newspapers of New Orleans have given from two to four columns each week to free church notices. Within the last two years some of the churches have bought advertising space. The churches using display space have found it a good investment I am told by the pastors."

The Indianapolis Star, Managing Editor: "First and most obvious is the effect in stimulating attendance. This result is too well attested by experience to be regarded as any longer a matter of experience."

Cincinnati Times-Star, Managing Editor: "The church, today as always, requires direct advertising of its work. My experience has been that the militant church, with its modern methods of getting men and women within its portals, is the one which is doing the greatest amount of good in the community. The great factor in the campaigns of such institutions is advertising, newspaper advertising, that will reach into the homes."

The World-Herald, Omaha, Neb., Advertising Manager: "It is our opinion that the ministers of the various churches are convinced of the value of newspaper advertising, in view of their efforts to obtain free publicity."

The Milwaukee Sentinel, Advertising Manager: "We believe that churches will benefit by advertising in the daily newspaper. First of all, it gives them a chance to say exactly what they want to the public, and at the right time. Then again, it is in harmony with the spirit of the times. Experience has proven in Milwaukee that it has greatly increased the attendance at the church services."

Chicago Herald and Examiner, Church Advertising: "Churches using newspaper space are immediately looked upon by all who see the ad as being progressive. If the merchant can make you buy his wares through consistent clean advertising, you certainly can interest people in church by the same means."

Milwaukee Journal, Editorial Rooms: "Advertising in the daily and weekly papers serves as a connecting link or point of contact between the house of worship and the man without. Good church advertising copy in the proper mediums should in every way fulfill the commands of the Scripture and 'compel them to come in.'"

The San Francisco Examiner: "Churches ought to be able to derive benefit from advertising in the newspapers, just as any business or organization which depends upon public support derives benefit. People go to stores to supply their material needs, and they are drawn to those stores whose advertisements they have read. People go to churches to supply their spiritual needs, and all of those who are unattached to a particular church are likely to be drawn to that church which advertises something that they think will fill their spiritual need."

The Evening Bulletin, Business Manager: "The fact that 'Religious Advertising' is constantly increasing in volume is the best indication that it is productive—that it is attracting attention and bringing increased attendance."

The New York Times, Business Manager's Office: "The benefits derived by churches from advertising are practically the same as those accruing to all other enterprises, material and spiritual. With the growth of great population centers in this country, it is becoming more and methods and announcements of former days. The attention of the public must be drawn to the sources of spiritual light, if that light is to find wide reflection in the community. The gospel must now be carried to men, and it must be carried to them through those channels which reach all alike."

The Leader, Cleveland, Managing Editor: "The experience of Cleveland churches has proven that advertising increases attendance."

MT. STERLING HAS A BIG COURT DAY

Monday was a big court day at Mt. Sterling and the Advocate says of it:

About 6,000 cattle were on the market, the greater number coming from Eastern Kentucky, and the purchasers were largely made up of farmers from counties adjacent to Montgomery county. The trade was slightly draggy. About 1,500 were left in the pens to find a market. Prices ran as follows: A few choice steers sold at 7 1/2c; canners were slow at 1 1/2c; cutters brought 2 and 2 1/2c; fat cows that weighed 1,000 pounds brought 4 cents; good steers brought 4 1/2 to 5c; and those that brought more money came under the fancy grades. Fat cattle were in demand and active at 4 cents.

J. M. Adams purchased of John McMahon, two black horses at $150; one 7-year-old gray gelding from Bert McCarty for $85; a 6-year-old saddle from J. L. Faulkner at $200.

P. B. Penn, of Ashland, bought a number of plug horses at prices ranging from $35 to $75.

It was a busy day with horse flesh and many were sold, bringing under the hammer $15 and the hammer $15 and the rise. These horses were low grade plugs.

En route from the pens we observed Nat Young with a purchase of 67 nice steers that weighed 325 pounds and for which he paid 6 cents.

T. B. Hill secured 30 head of fancy steers that weighed from 500 to 1,000 pounds for which he paid 7 cents. Some cattle came from Big Goose Creek, Clay county.

There were 380 head of sheep unsold and for which 7 cents was rejected. Mules were plentiful but slow of sale at from $60 to $125. A few extra good ones went at $150.

The naval bill carrying $295,000,000 and providing for 86,000 men, passed the Senate.

Memphis and Atlanta were swept by tremendous rain and wind storms.

Clogged Up Kidney Deposits Are Dissolved and the Toxins (Poisons) Completely Driven Out. Druggists Told To Guarantee It In Every Instance.

"Your very life," says Dr. Carey, "depends upon the perfect functioning and health of your kidneys so whatever you do don't neglect them."

Dr. Carey's famous prescription No. 777 (Liquid or Tablets) is not recommended for everything, but we cannot too strongly urge its use if you suffer from annoying bladder troubles, frequent passing of water night and day, with smarting irritation, brick dust sediment or highly colored urine, bloating irritability with loss of flesh, backache, rheumatism or any other tendency to Bright's Disease, Gravel or Diabetes, for kidney disease in its worst form may be stealing upon you.

Don't wait until tomorrow to begin the use of this wonderful prescription if you have any of the above symptoms. Kidney and Bladder trouble don't wear away. They will grow upon you slowly, stealthily and with unerring certainty. Never mind the failures of the past if you even suspect that you are subject to kidney disease; don't lose a single day for every druggist has been authorized to return the purchase

AT THE MOVIES

"Her Own Money"
Has Notable Players

For "Her Own Money," Ethel Clayton's new picture, which is to be shown at local theaters Thursday an excellent cast of supporting players has been selected. Warner Baxter, playing the role of Lew Alden, heads the list. Mr. Baxter has played with Justine Johnston and other stars Mae Busch, who played leads to Eddie Foy and was one of the earlier queens of Keystone comedy, will be seen in an important feminine role. Charles French, playing an interesting character part, is a veteran screen actor has appeared with some of the most noted screen stars, including Nazimova, Charles Ray, Dorothy Dalton, Tom Mix, W. S. Hart and William Russell. Clarence Burton, one of the most talented screen seavies, will play another characteristic villain role. The cast is further augmented by Jean Acker and Roscoe Kerns.

"Tarzan of the Apes" Sensation

"A peculiar and remarkable picture"—was the judgment of Broadway critics after the first New York showing of "Tarzan of the Apes," which will be seen at local theatres Friday. The audience included many theatrical notables and they were unanimous in declaring the picture to be remarkably staged and a marvelous production of one of the most interesting stories ever screened. Intertwined are three romances, three contrasting love stories which are flashed back to and fro with remarkable frequency, yet dovetailing into the picture with a picturesque intensity. The picture was made in the tropical forests of the Amazon valley in Brazil, which is said to have furnished an atmospheric background hardly imaginable.

Mrs. Jonah Wagers and Mrs. G. W. Evans spent Wednesday in Lexington.

FRILLS AND RUFFLES ARE SUPPLANTING MANNISH SEVERITY IN APPAREL

CHICAGO—The day of mannish severity in feminine apparel is waning. The tendency is for dainty frills and ruffles of laces and embroideries in costumes, as concealing and demure as those worn a half century ago by the girls who are grandmothers today. This decided change, which comes perhaps as a reaction to wartime freedom in dress, is being more talked of every day by close students of fashion both in France and America. Evidence of the increasing use of laces were cited by Frank Hatch, head of the Zion Lace Industries of Marshall Field & Company, at the recent Chicago meeting of the Fashion Art League of America.

"The cycle of dress, revolving slowly, approaches again a period when feminine apparel reverts to a softness of silhouette, a shadowiness of outline," he said. "Laces and embroideries are coming into use wherever there is the slightest chance for them." He told of the greatly increased demand for silk Spanish all-over designs, replicas of antique hand made laces, with which afternoon and evening gowns are being made.

Perhaps the swing of the pendulum of fashion is due to a reaction from the era of short skirts and rolled down stockings—the post war days of more hilarious living and greater frivolity in dress. Longer skirts, an increase in home sewing and the wider use of laces and embroideries presage the growing spirit of conservatism in apparel.

The sketch to the left was made of a costume with an all over Spanish black silk lace. Such a costume can be worn with any of a number of different colored slips, giving the wearer several dresses in one. The dress usually are of crepe de chine, satin or Georgette. The dress sketched in the right hand illustration is typical of the new Colleen type, with ruffles of embroidered batiste edged with Irish crochet.

Sweden Revises Entire Educational System

(By Associated Press)
Stockholm, June 21—Sweden's educational system today faces reorganization, the purpose of which is to place full educational advantages within close reach of every child in the land, irrespective of the child's social standing in the community.

Under the new plan all of Sweden's public schools, from the elementary grades to the universities, be co-educational. At the present time only the elementary schools and the universities receive both sexes.

It is now proposed that virtually the whole educational work of the country, with the exception of a few private schools, be taken over by the state. Tuition fees will be practically eliminated, and students will not be encumbered by the study of non-essential subjects.

Rev. Purvis At Mt. Pleasant

The Irvine Times says that Rev. Cleo Purvis, pastor of the Christian church, left Monday to hold a protracted meeting at Mt. Pleasant church in Madison. He will likely be away about fifteen days and Brother C. Duncan will fill the pulpit in his absence. Brother Duncan can fill a pulpit as ably as he can a professor's chair and everyone is invited to hear him. We wish Brother Purvis much success with his meeting at Mt. Pleasant, which we know he will have.

SAYS NEWSPAPERS PREACH THE GOSPEL

Illuminating Address on Relation of Press and Pulpit Is Given By Rev. Smith

(By Associated Press)
Milwaukee, Wis. June 21—The secular press of America "is untrammelled, fair and sound, and is therefore a great ally of the Christian churches," Rev. J. T. Brabner Smith, of Chicago, of the division of publicity, Committee on Conservation and Advance of the Boards of Benevolence of the Methodist Episcopal Church, told the convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World here today. He declared that there should be a fund in every church for publicity purposes and that the church should buy space in the daily papers and announce its services to the community with the same energy with which the business man advertises his stock.

"In seven years active co-operation with the secular press we have found the press of America sound to the core," said Rev. Mr. Smith. "There is no controlled American press. Either by any particular church or by any particular business. It is ridiculous to say that any certain denomination controls the American press."

"Many of the leading newspapers both editorially and in their news columns, are at present preaching the gospel as clearly as it is being preached in any pulpit. There are editorials which convince us that many of the editors are prophets, and some of them with a prophetic vision which outclasses many of the preachers in the modern pulpits. This is a true and faithful saying."

"Editors could well afford to give more space for news and churches could well afford to spend more money for advertising the church in the papers. The value of the church to society is of great publicity value. Roger Babson has asked the question, 'Supposing we had no sons of preachers?' Preachers' sons were once called the 'worst brats in the parish' but Roger Babson discovered that out of 100 leaders in America thirty came from the homes of poor country preachers."

"Churches co-operate with newspapers in order to secure first hand information and to study advertising. The Methodist ministers of New York are planning a six weeks' course in church advertising, taught by New York advertising men. In this way the ministers and laymen will obtain the services of expert advertising men and they will also give them some valuable information regarding the successful art of advertising."

"Rev. Oliver Kene has been pastor of the Methodist church at Kearney, Neb., for four years and in that time he has quadrupled the membership. How did he do it? 'By Advertising,' he says. 'Among the preachers who are buying space in the newspapers is an eminent Methodist clergyman in Detroit, Mich. He began his pastorate with a small congregation and also with the outlay of $1,500 for advertising. With persistent advertising and 'delivering the goods' when people came to church he has now a congregation which overflows the church; the increase in loose collections pays for the advertising, and there's money left for other church purposes."

"In the New Testament we read of one man, Zacchaeus, who could not see Christ because of the 'press,' meaning of course, the press of the crowd. This incident is constantly quoted by many church men."

"Editors and newspapers, like preachers and churches, are held accountable for their utterances by their auditors. The Bible says 'they have their reward.' This often comes when the preacher ceases to move his congregation to action by his inconsistency or his lack of zeal for the highest good and he becomes 'a sounding brass or tinkling cymbal.' This applies just as forcibly to the editors and the newspapers. There are many newspapers widely read by persons who read them for other purposes than to accept their leadership."

"The constant senseless criticism of the pulpit or the press is harmful, but constructive criticism and co-operation of the church with the newspaper means a tremendous power of uplift in any community."

"The question arises, what is news, even church news?"

and the like news which is of the underworld. Editors differ on this question and so do church men. The Bible itself publishes the sins, faults and foibles of man of its best men, but it also publishes the beautiful side of life, making the moral and the spiritual life superior and more attractive than the brutish.

"It is very difficult for a layman or a clergyman to realize that the newspaper or the great news services cannot be used for propagating denominational ideas or personal opinion."

"One of the simplest rules for preparing a church article for the newspapers is seen in the difference between a newspaper article and a sermon. The newspaper article contains the meat of the whole subject in the first paragraph while a sermon gradually leads through a long process of arguments to a peroration at the end."

"There is great need in religious articles of brains and common sense. Writers for the newspapers should study the newspapers in general and make a special study of the contents of the papers to which material will be submitted. There is a newspaper English or style of expression. Write clearly and intelligently. Be brief, be very brief, but not too brief for clarity of express. Do not use hackneyed phrases. Be careful how you use words, specially adjectives and adverbs. The shorter the words the better. Cut out all fine writing. Be accurate."

"It is difficult to understand the attitude that the church should take to the newspaper, unless the functions of the newspaper are defined. One of the editors of the Chicago Tribune said, 'The school of Journalism of Northwestern University said, "Editors and editorial writers are servants of an institution which serves all service less than the public welfare and which leads or drives individual factions, even political parties, in that direction." The later editor, Mr. Medill, of the Tribune, said that "the newspaper represented the public interest."

"The ideal newspaper, according to Mr. Medill, is to represent the public interest at all cost and in spite of all opposition and individual interest. With such an ideal newspaper the church representatives can easily co-operate."

Cities Pass Laws to Save Homes by Making Roofs More Resistant to Fire

Fifty families made homeless and thirteen homes gutted by fire that destroyed three blocks of Chicago's shingle roof district.

DRASTIC changes in the fire regulations of cities all over the country have followed the compilation of figures by the National Board of Fire Underwriters showing the tremendous lessons learned by a study of the 3,000,000 and more fires that occurred from 1916 to 1920.

The total loss for that period was $1,672,722,677, which would be enough to have built 334,000 dwellings costing $5,000 apiece, or enough housing to care for 1,700,000 people. That means a number as large as the combined populations of Connecticut, Nevada and Wyoming. Most of these fires were preventable.

The records show that at least $23,000,000 of the property destroyed was by fires due to sparks communicating through the roof. Roof fires are among those considered easily preventable. Yet the records in many cities show that the same old wooden ones and will last anywhere from ten flaming embers alighting on inflammable roofs. During a recent safety campaign it was shown that Indianapolis alone had 1,400 wooden shingle roof fires in one year and 800 in two months. Then the city council passed an ordinance making the elimination of wooden shingle roofs mandatory. Other cities are having the same experience. Wabash, Ind., for instance, had thirty fires in January and February of this year. Twenty-five of them were due to wooden shingle roofs.

The cure for this condition is being found in most cities in covering the old wooden shingle roofs with asphalt roofing or with asphalt shingles. Since the development of this fire-resistant material to the stage where both the color and the texture can be had in various styles, the cure has been found to be quite permanent. The asphalt shingles weigh just about the same as the wooden ones and will last anywhere from ten

1,600,000 Pounds Added to Pool

Lexington, Ky., June 20—For the third consecutive week new contracts signed by burley tobacco growers pledging their 1922 to 1923 crops to the co-operative marketing plan of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association, exceeded 500, according to the totals of the reports to Assistant Chief William Collins of the Field Service Division, made public Saturday.

The past week contracts to the number of 652 contracts were received, representing about 1,600,000 pounds of tobacco. More than 150 signed in West Virginia and a number known to have been signed in other counties are not included in the report.

Workers in Lewis county probably broke the record for successful signing up of contracts. Of 126 men who were solicited by Albert Day, of Maysville, and others helping him in that county, 122 signed the contracts and Mr. Day reports that Lewis will be practically unanimous for the new marketing plan before the new crop is cut.

Clifton Rodes, Lewis county farmer, who is leading the West Virginia and Eastern Ohio campaign, continues to increase the number of contracts signed each week in his territory. A big meeting of tobacco growers was held Saturday at Hurricane, W. Va., addressed by President Jas. C. Stone. In spite of all that warehouse and speculating interests have been able to do in opposition, the movement for co-operative marketing is shown by the contracts signed to be steadily growing in favor with the farmers.

Frank C. Greene, formerly of Carroll county, now a successful lawyer of Louisville, will be the speaker at the big tobacco meeting in Greensburg this week.

Drive in West Virginia

Hurricane, W. Va., June 20—The first big rally of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association in West Virginia, went off with a bang here Saturday.

A brass band, a baseball game, addresses by James C. Stone, president of the association, and by Elliott Northcott, United States district attorney, a parade of tobacco growers who have signed the co-operative contract, and signing of many contracts by other growers here stretched the celebration out from the middle of the morning until nearly sunset.

The precinct chairman appointed here last week will launch immediately into a strenuous campaign for a week, which will culminate next Saturday in another meeting of tobacco growers at Hurricane to complete a permanent organization, elect a county chairman, and lay plans for carrying Putnam county 100 per cent for the association.

The aim was crystallized Saturday in a banner carried by two leading growers in the parade, which read, "Let's Pool West Virginia Solid." This has been adopted as the motto of the Putnam county organization.

Contracts were signed at the meeting here Saturday, in addition to those signed during the week by tobacco growers in other sections. Workers for the pool from Kentucky and other places were delayed by requests from growers for meetings at which the co-operative contract will be explained. Not enough men are available for all these meetings requested but as many as possible will be held. The methods used to initiate a vigorous campaign in Putnam county will be put into practice immediately in other West Virginia counties it was announced at the close of the speaking.

H. B. Carpenter, of Lawrenceburg, who has had charge of the preliminary organization work in this county, will remain here for a while as advisor to local workers. The crowd attracted here by the meeting came from four counties, and was declared to be the largest seen here for many years. The parade stretched from the center of the town to the ball park, where the addresses were made. Hurricane formerly was nicknamed by the farmers "The Pin Hookers' Paradise."

SWIMMING GROWS IN POPULARITY

(By Associated Press)

Cleveland, O., June 21—Swimming—both as a sport and as a physical equalizer—will soon be among the most favored diversions of both city and country people wherever a beach or swimming pool is available with the coming of summer days.

Such has been the spread in popularity of swimming however, that with many natators, it merely becomes a matter of changing from an indoor to an outdoor lake or river. Swimming, despite the skepticism of the novice, is not difficult to learn, say the experts, who declare that besides being great sport, it is a vitalizer for the entire human system.

"Swimming is an important part of the education of every man and woman because it is of great value in self-protection and because it means gaining or retaining good health, strengthening and improving the body," says H. S. Ulea, swimming coach of the Central Y. M. C. A. here. "It is one of the most beneficial of all around exercises and its advantages are just as great in winter as in summer."

"Frequent indulgence in swimming will lead to gaining or retaining good health, it improves and strengthens the body and vitalizes the entire system. There is no better equalizer than aquatics. It takes off weight by reducing the fatty tissue, and fills out the lean by energetic upbuilding of all muscles. "Swimming, as most will agree furnishes a far more attractive program and recreation than dull, tedious gymnasium work, or so-called 'home exercises.' Swimming will build up all the muscles proportionately. It is necessary to pay strict attention to form in swimming. It is advisable to begin by having with you someone who is an expert swimmer or to learn from a good instructor."

Great Comedy, "Friendly Enemies," a Chautauqua Attraction

"Friendly Enemies" is one of the most popular of recent comedy successes. Scores of cities throughout the country have alternately laughed and wept over this irresistible comedy drama whose plot grows out of the conflicting convictions of two lifelong friends. A complete production of "Friendly Enemies" will be given at the coming Redpath Chautauqua by a cast of experienced Broadway actors organized by William J. Keighley, manager of the New York City Producing Department of the Redpath Bureau.

UNION CITY FARMERS WELCOME BUREAU

The Farm Bureau meeting held at Union City was a most successful one, according to Geoffrey Morgan, who attended and assisted the farmers in perfecting their local organization plans Tuesday night. The signing of members into the Union City Farm Bureau unit by the light of auto headlights was a unique experience and showed that the farmers of this section are of the proper cooperation spirit and mean to set a hot pace for the balance of the county in the matter of membership.

C. L. Tipton, William Jett and Joe Hamilton volunteered as solicitors at the meeting. Two or three other solicitors for the community will be selected and each of these five or six will sign up the members for this locality. It is planned that the entire community will be signed up in the Union City district within the next week.

In the Red House district a strong squad of farmer solicitors is at work including Albert McCown, Sam Baldwin, Alvin Brandenburg, Gordon Burgin, C. W. and Dave Cobb and Shelby Burgin. Those joining with the Farm Bureau are expected to give their membership to some one of their local committeemen.

E. P. Taylor, of the American Farm Bureau, who is co-operating with Secretary Morgan and the county workers, states that the Madison County Farm Bureau program of work is one of the most practical and useful outlines undertaken by any farmers organization. A meeting is scheduled this evening at College Hill.

Beat Train In Auto To Kill Man, Is Charge

Louisville, Ky., June 21—Coakley Howe beat a train from New Haven to Louisville in his automobile to kill Wm. Bray, who was eloping with his wife, Mrs. Irene Howe, according to police who received a telephone message from New Haven, waited at union station, found Howe without trouble and took him to headquarters. A large pistol was taken from him, said the officers. Police then returned to the station, apprehended the elopers and took them to headquarters. Howe with his wife, started back for New Haven in their car. Bray was released later. Howe is a farmer and had employed Bray some time ago.

Swimming In Clothes, John Hauck Is Drowned

Louisville, Ky., June 21—John Hauck, 35, was drowned in the Ohio river, following his attempt to swim half the width of the river. Hauck, in company with Lee Roehn, had rowed more than 200 feet from the Kentucky side and expressed a desire to swim ashore, and without warning dove into the river attired in his clothes.

Well, Collectors Generally Win

Mexico City, June 21—Bill Rendered, owned by F. W. Davis, an American merchant here, won the Mexican derby this year from a field of ten. This was the first time the derby, hitherto a national institution, has been run since 1910.

Mexico May Have Secession

Mexico City, June 21—A proposal that the state of Vera Cruz secede from the republic of Mexico has been made in the legislature of that state by certain radical groups which claim that they are not adequately or justly represented in the national congress.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS—A Simple Formula

CLOTHIERS HEAR EXPERTS ON SERVICE

(By Associated Press)
Louisville, Ky., June 21—That the question of decreasing "overhead" is the most serious one that confronts every merchant in the United States was the assertion of Morris Kohlman, Madisonville merchant, in leading a discussion today before the Kentucky Retail Clothiers' Association on the subject "What are we doing to decrease overhead?"

"In the outset," said Mr. Kohlman, "I will say that the subject of decreasing overhead is a delicate as well as serious one that confronts every merchant in the United States. Brainiest men in the mercantile business have lost hours of sleep studying this subject."

Solutions offered by Mr. Kohlman were:

Buying more often and smaller quantities, giving smaller investments and more turnovers.
Increasing the volume with the old and set expense each house has.

Know the actual cost of selling make a legitimate profit, at the same time giving the public merchandise as low as possible.

"Hidden Service" that is service that cannot be seen by the customer but which resonates to his benefit, is even more important than the "accommodation service" seen always by the customer. D. I. Brousseau, of Louisville, told the association in an address on "Expert Store Service." Service, he said, is one of the most important factors in the mercantile world.

The average merchant and purchaser consider service only to the extent that they can visibly benefit the customer, he said. They omit to apply real service to such functions as ultimately result to the benefit of the customer, although not in a direct way and probably not as visible as the accommodation service.

He asserted that there could be a great deal more service in the interior of the store organization through which overhead can be cut, unnecessary expenses eliminated, turnovers increased and the customer benefited more than through accommodation service.

WILLIAMS TO SELL BARRELS OF WHISKY

At Lexington Federal Judge A. M. J. Cochran Tuesday issued an order directing U. S. Marshal Roy Williams to sell 48 barrels of whisky seized by prohibition officers several months ago after it had been stolen from the D. L. Moore distillery at Vanarsdall, Mercer county. H. A. (Hum) Collins, of Louisville, and several other men were convicted at the last term of Richmond court on a charge of stealing the whisky. Two of those convicted are now serving jail sentences at Richmond and the others are on bond awaiting an appeal to the District Court of Appeals at Cincinnati. The whisky is now in a Frankfort distillery. It can be sold only to wholesale druggists, hospitals or other firm or persons holding permits to buy whisky. Sealed bids will be received after those eligible to submit bids have been notified of the order of sale.

STICKING IN PINS

Tick-tick-clatter, clatter, clatter, whirr-r-r goes the stock ticker. On the Chicago Board of Trade a hundred thousand bushels of May wheat has just been sold. Tick, tick-clatter, clatter—whizz, whirr-r-r, New York has bought ten thousand shares of U. S. Steel Preferred. Minute by minute, hour by hour, this busy little instrument records the rise and fall of industry and its message spells exhilaration and depression, success and failure. Industrial experts carefully study the unrolling tape and from it feel the pulse of the world's business.

All over this land, in state and county, township and community, the fight is being carried on these days to make permanent a farmers' organization; to bring health and strength back to the fundamental industry of soil tilling and stock raising; and in the Chicago office of the American Farm Bureau Federation the progress of this organization campaign is being carefully watched and checked, hour by hour, and day by day.

Maps Tell the Story.

Instead of a ticker and tape, a map on the wall shows every county in the United States. Whenever a county is organized and a Farm Bureau established, a red-headed pin is placed in that county, and "Farmers Preferred" advances a point. Out west, where the counties cover hundreds of square miles, these pins appear far apart, while in little Rhode Island three pins close together make a 100 per cent farm bureau state. Every pin represents days and weeks of hard work and tells in brief the story of success.

The entire recording mechanism, however, is much more delicate than is required for noting the addition of new counties. As the stream of daily mail goes thru the central office, every letter is scanned for news from the field telling the story bit by bit of the steady increase in membership.

What One Woman Did.

The searchlight plays for a moment on Virginia, where down in the Blacksburg district of Montgomery County the story of Farm Bureau is being carried thru storms and over impassable roads on horseback. In Humboldt County, in northern Nevada, where a woman drives fifty miles to the nearest railroad station and rides five hundred more to attend the annual state Farm Bureau meeting at Reno and learn how she best could help advance the work that means so much to western agriculture. With a wide sweep the light swings back for a moment to old New York State where, in Jefferson County, Ellisburg Township has just come thru with a sign up of 90 per cent of the entire farm population.

In Utah, pushing the regular county drives, we see the president of the state Farm Bureau taking the field at the head of a flying squadron in one direction, while an executive committeeman of the American Farm Bureau personally leads a picked team from county to county in another. South Dakota is wiping out a financial deficit of $3,500 in 31 minutes. In Missouri, Kansas, and Nebraska new enthusiasm and endeavor develop daily.

An Organized Agriculture.

The recording system in Chicago ticks away day after day, abstracting and card indexing the most detailed and minute information as to the daily progress of the work, filing away a bit at a time under each state its planning and progress, telling an accurate story of discouragements, worries, and fears, as well as of successes and triumphs, so that at any moment the director may glance over the tape and is at once in possession of all the facts in every case.

So the record grows and day by day, a county at a time, the blank spaces on the map are filled up with little red-headed pins, small in themselves, but great in the sum total of what they represent—a solidly organized American agriculture.

CRACK COLORED TEAM WINS AGAIN

(By Joe Fields)

On Sunday afternoon the Richmond Browns, the crack colored team, defeated the strong Indianapolis A. B. C's. The game was very exciting all the way from the first to the ninth inning. In the seventh after two were out, Dunson walked, stole second, and on Tye's single came home for the tying run. Then in the ninth Dunson drew another pass after two were out. He stole second and it was faithful Tye's single that kept the game from going into extra innings.

On next Sunday the hard hitting Giants from Lockland, Ohio, will play. Come out and see a wonderful game. The score: Richmond AB R H PO A E
